

INFOVISA HOLDS ANNUAL MAUI CLIENT CONFERENCE

October 29, 2008

Denver, CO – With the Rocky Mountains as a back drop and a presidential election only a couple of weeks away, Denver hosted it's second major national conference in as many months. From October 22nd - 24th the clients of INFOVISA gathered for the annual MAUI Client Conference which was held at the Grand Hyatt Denver. INFOVISA holds this annual conference as a way for their clients to gather information about new products and enhancements, gain a deeper understanding of the MAUI product, learn more about INFOVISA the company, and as a means of developing networking opportunities.

During this conference attendees were able to see the introduction of the MAUI Investment Manager product and the re-write of the popular MAUIWeb client access Internet website. The MAUI Investment Manager product is an entirely new software program that will allow the investment professional to work through various modeling scenarios to determine the best possible fit for their clients. During 2008, a major initiative was undertaken to bring the MAUI client internet access portal in line with today's technology. MAUIWeb has completely been rewritten to deliver to the customer a more interactive experience such as dashboards and customizable reports through the use of ASP.NET and AJAX technologies.

Attendees were also able to have some fun while networking with their peers. Prior to the conference opening there was a tour of the United States Mint and Denver Art Museum. Another exciting part of the conference program was the dinner at the Champions Club at Invesco Field at Mile High Stadium. In between enjoying a fabulous dinner, attendees were also treated to a tour of the stadium including the opportunity to walk out of the visitor's tunnel onto the field.
